

PROQUIP

Smooth as silk

Another company known for producing high quality clothing is Proquip who have just extended their Silk Touch Wind Range.

They have introduced new featherlight wind garments inspired by the 2006 European Ryder Cup Team's weatherwear. The ultra-soft, micro-woven fabric features in the new Silk Touch Half-Sleeve Wind Shield. As well as being virtually silent to swing, Silk Touch is Teflon coated protecting the golfer from wind and showers. The Half-Sleeve Wind Shield features bold striking colour ways including aqua, moss and purple, with strong black shoulder striping.

The garment I must admit I was particularly impressed with in their superb range is the Ultralite rain jacket, which in my opinion is up there with the very best on the market.

The Scottish firm has developed the new Ultralite, which is 15% lighter than their Silk Touch rain suit and again is light and easy to swing in. Importantly it is highly-crease-resistant and durable.

The stylish design featuring a streamlined cut and contrasting shoulder and sleeve stripes, is inspired by Proquip's distinctive 2006 European Ryder Cup Team suit and is available in a range of colours that will appeal to all golfers.
